

Underground drip irrigation

Alta Verapaz, Guatemala

Subsurface drip irrigation is a method of applying water below the soil surface. This is done by using buried micro-pipes. The strategy of this type of irrigation is to apply very small amounts of water with a high frequency. This ensures constant moisture in the soil.

water management

irrigation

sustainable agricult