

Root System Floating

Alta Verapaz, Guatemala

In this method, the plants are placed in a sheet or raft - usually made of unicell - that floats on top of the nutrient solution, so that their roots are submerged in the solution. An air pump provides the roots with the oxygen necessary for optimal development. .

water management

agriculture

sustainable agricult

aquaponic